

Established 1892

The Rose Creek Weekly

"People need to know what is going on."

I. M. Rose, Founder

EDITION FOUR

Wanna Newman,
Reporter

Mayor Josephine reports that the ST. PATRICK'S DAY PARADE will begin at the new courthouse; where it ends, nobody is sure yet.

Miss Belle's Restaurant is offering Irish soda bread and cock-a-leekie soup for St. Patrick's Day. "Next week we'll have Middle Eastern lavash. On that time travel I learned to call a really bad dust storm a haboob."

Miss Faith the Librarian responded to criticism about certain periodicals she stocks. "People should read. Some residents may never get past a dime novel but that's better than illiteracy."

Both Pleasant Pearl and Rose reported seeing Miss Sarah in the Cemetery at night recently.

UNDISCIPLINED DOGS?

Contact Miss Tallulah Rose.

Miss Ann, see Clara Bow at Post Office for unclaimed letter from your mother.

After the explosion at his clock shop, Evan Simms says he will open as soon as he gets re-stocked. "Actually, I've been wanting to catch up on reading The Weekly and to varnish that floor anyway."

SCHOOL NEWS

Teacher Miss MARI-Ann now owns a gramophone. "I never even heard one in The Netherlands," she said. "But my life was very different then." She, Miss Maude and Miss Elizabeth Collins are making plans for an End-of-Term School Party.

Joe Lalo, who had been working at the Rose Creek Stables, has established a business in the back room at Dolly's Mercantile. His custom leather straps are much in demand to secure time travelers' trunks.

Madam Christabel's Therapy Center has caught on so well they need a bigger meeting place. Jack Anderson has been contracted.

Workers at The Old Mill are upset that people elsewhere doing the same work are receiving 23 cents an hour. "That's what happens when you time travel. You learn things," one said.

The Sheriff reminds residents to keep boardwalks clear of clutter, after a local man tripped over a bucket and split his head open when he was looking inside the door of The Old Homestead.

TRAIN UNVEILED

Thaddeus Gearbender, recently hired assistant to Oceanus Water Walker at the Museum, unveiled his brilliant new train. But some worried that women's uteruses would fly out at those speeds.

The Rose Creek Weekly,
Edition Four, p. 2

Mortella and Mortecai
Gravestone offers free presentations on providing for loved ones before shuffling off this mortal coil.

Miss Prunella Potter received a large shipment of silks and satins. We are not sure if these are for dressmaking or for coffins. Someone recently remarked that Widow Smith matched the lining of the late Mr. Smith's coffin.

Miss Rosemary Toombes offers funeral arrangements. A payment plan is available.

Effie's Exquisite Creations has a new shipment of straw bonnets, just right for Spring.

After delivering ingots, Buck, The Wells Fargo Driver, headed for Perle's comestibles.

Hop Sing Lee Special: Detachable collars, 3 cleaned for price of 1.

Mr. Leonard, a graduate of B. Moler's School for Barbers in Chicago, has now opened A Cut Above. Five residents now have their personal shaving cups there.

ENTERTAINMENT

Pleasant Pearl plays and sings a rollicking rendition of The Ratcatcher's Daughter at The Old Homestead. Miss Sugar often joins in.

MIDNIGHT CIRCUS

Rose Creek residents have been attending the circus in droves. Clarence Bailey, owner and ringmaster, informed us that men from one of the local mines will be coming into town, so they will remain for a holdover week.

Marguerite, his exotic trapeze artist, is a sensation. He has contracted with a local supplier for her special needs. We wonder who and what THAT might be? "Well, don't ask US!" said Miss Raven and Arnold Wiggins! "Or me, God Forbid," said Dr. Tabitha Anderson.

Henry Jones, who sings tenor, has joined The Rose creek Barbershop Quartet. Right now, however, it is a trio. They are in need of a bass, since Charlie, the Town Drunk, cannot be counted upon.

Lawyer Pontius Palmer, in town to confer with Arabella, is staying in the hotel's expensive suite. He asked that breakfast be sent over to her in jail from Miss Belle's Restaurant. We do not know if this will be acceptable to The Sheriff.

PHOTOGRAPHER'S MODEL?

The photographer for a recent publication of Women in the West used a local Rose Creek resident as his model when he was passing through. The name of the woman is not available at press time. Look like anyone you know?

Deputy Duke arrested a chicken thief with goods in hand.

FRESH PLUCKED CHICKENS

Now at Dolly's Mercantile.

The Rose Creek Weekly,
Edition 4, p. 3

MELODRAMA PERFORMANCE

The Rose Creek Theater Group will present their first performance of the spring season, "The Wicked Wife Repents" as soon as the opera house is available. The second performance scheduled will be "The Faithless Husband Returns."

Miss Sarah Winchester has ordered several new clocks from Evan Simms, of the Once Upon a Time Clock Shop, one for each of the new rooms she has commissioned for the Winchester House. He is working on them at his residence until the varnish dries on his new floor.

Miss Emma Adelaide is offering custom fittings for summer voiles, organdies and other light dresses.

"Calicoes make great traveling skirts," she says.

Dolly's Mercantile has white shoes and boots for spring and summer and Miss Millie's Millinery has new laces in stock.

Sagebrush Sally is new manager of the Rose Creek Stables, in partnership with Slim Hardy.

Oceanus Water Walker needs to identify a mysterious necklace left at her museum. Dominique V told her, "It looks like a piece by Paulding Farnham, Tiffany's head designer, who was asked to design it for his mother-in-law, I think!"

"I saw it worn by Mrs. Sally James Farnham almost ten years in the future. You better get that back where - and when - it belongs!" Oceanus thinks it was Miss Emma Adelaide who left it. But why? "I don't know when or where to go to solve this and I don't need the aggravation," she told us.

Jenny Ann and Buck the Wells Fargo Driver were seen strolling by the Old Mill. "We discussed delivery procedures," she said.

The Sheriff says Arabella can eat jail breakfasts like everybody else. "If I can eat that slop, so can she."

After riding on Thaddeus Gearbender's train, Klaus Schmidt says his family arrived safely back in Germany, uterus intact. "Gott sei Dank!"

Lucy MaGee loves her new waders. "Don't need no more wet feet, after my bout with pleurisy."

Miss MelvaDean Stanton McNary posted a picture in the post office of men standing next to a gigantic pile of buffalo skulls. People whispered that one was Close Call. Shortly after, he came into The Weekly's office and dictated the following letter to your reporter:

Miss McNary has left town for a while. The Vicar's Wife said that sometimes our best intentions go awry, and no one is perfect.

